1. Executive summary

The game is ready to meet players. This plan brings in the first players over eight weeks using only free channels, and measures which channels bring players who actually play, solve and come back.

24	18	8 wks	$0
ready-to-post ads	free channels	Nov 2 to Dec 31	spend

- The idea in one line: "Logic grid puzzles with a new story every time." No competitor writes a fresh story for each puzzle, and none teaches with step-by-step hints for free.
- How it rolls out: a quiet first week with friends, family and small social accounts to catch problems; then video and Reddit; then the two big launch days (Product Hunt on Tuesday, November 17 and Show HN on Wednesday, November 18); then printables and holiday puzzles through Thanksgiving and December.
- Every link is tracked with an anonymous campaign code. The admin Marketing section shows visits, puzzles started, puzzles solved and installs per channel, per ad and per day. No personal data, no cookies, no third-party trackers.
- Every ad opens a quick Easy puzzle (`?play=now`), so a new visitor is playing in one tap.
- Expected result (middle scenario): about 4,000 visits, 1,600 players starting a puzzle and 800 solving one by December 31. The range is 1,500 to 12,000 visits (section 4).
- Money: the campaign itself costs $0. Running the game costs about $101 a month (mostly your build tools). The game earns nothing until a Support option is switched on. In the expected case it starts making a profit in May 2027. Over 12 months that comes to a loss of $113: $1,356 of revenue against $1,470 of costs (section 8).

What happens next: you approve the ads (in the admin Marketing section or by replying in the project), create the free accounts (Appendix C, also emailed), and the first post goes out on Monday, November 2.

2. Where the game stands

What we are launching

- Free logic grid puzzles in the browser, plus a Windows app and an installable web app that works offline.
- A new story, cast and clue wording for every puzzle, from 14 themes and six levels (Basic to MENSA). Every puzzle has exactly one answer, checked by a solver.
- A daily puzzle with streaks, races against other players and a scoreboard, Challenge a friend links, printing with answer keys, hints that explain the reasoning, read-aloud voices, more than 100 languages, keyboard and screen-reader play.

The market

Logic grid puzzles have a loyal audience (puzzle magazines, Puzzle Baron, app-store puzzle packs) but the main players sell fixed puzzle books and packs. Prices checked on October 26, 2026:

Competitor	Model	Price	What we do differently
Puzzle Baron (Logic Puzzles)	100 free, then paid volumes	$2.99 per volume, $4.99 a month	Unlimited new puzzles with a story each, teaching hints, daily puzzle, races and printables, all free
Logic Puzzles Daily	Puzzle packs	$1.99 packs, $4.49
Penny Dell Logic	Paid packs	$3.99 for 30
Everyday Grids	Ads plus subscription	$14.99 a year

Strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, threats

Strengths

- Endless fresh puzzles with stories
- Free, no sign-up, one tap to play
- Accessibility and printables
- Runs at $0

Weaknesses

- Unknown name, no followers yet
- No phone apps while mobile is paused
- No player reviews to show yet

Opportunities

- Teachers and parents want free printables
- Holiday downtime (Thanksgiving, December)
- Communities that like "made with care" indie projects
- Search: "free printable logic puzzles"

Threats

- Reddit and group self-promotion rules
- Big launch days can bring more traffic than free limits (watched by the free-limit alerts)
- Low organic reach on X and Facebook Pages

3. Who we are trying to reach

Group	What they want	Message that fits	Where they are
Puzzle fans	Fair, hard puzzles; a steady supply	"Basic to MENSA, a new puzzle whenever you want, exactly one answer"	r/logicpuzzles, r/puzzles, Facebook puzzle groups
Casual brain-game players	Something short and pleasant each day	"A new daily puzzle with a little story"	Instagram, TikTok, Threads, Facebook, YouTube Shorts
Teachers and parents	Free printables with answer keys	"Free printable logic puzzles with answer keys, any theme"	Pinterest, homeschool groups, LinkedIn
Web and indie gamers	Something new and well made to try	"Logic puzzles with a story, free in the browser"	r/WebGames, r/playmygame, itch.io
Makers and tech people	How it was built; they share widely	"A generator that writes a story for each puzzle, on free tiers"	Hacker News, Product Hunt, r/SideProject, Indie Hackers

Makers and tech people are not the main players, but they share links widely, so they are the cheapest way to reach the other groups.

4. Goals and how we will know

Pass marks (from the market test)

These are the numbers that tell us the game itself is working for new players. They are measured over 28 days and appear in the Monday summary email.

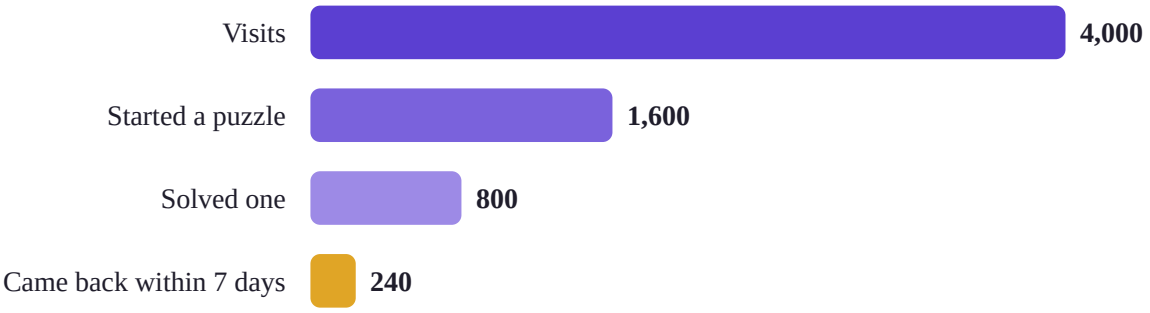

Measure	Pass mark	Needs at least	Where it is measured
Visitors who start a puzzle	40%	100 visitors	Marketing: Visits and Played
Started games that are solved	50%	30 games	Marketing: Played and Solved
Average rating	4.0 of 5	30 ratings	Ratings and insights
Players who come back within 7 days	15%	100 players	Weekly summary funnel
Support link clicks	2%	n/a	Not measured yet (no Support button live)

Campaign scenarios to December 31

Visits are planning assumptions, not promises. The other numbers apply the pass marks above, plus an assumed 3% install rate.

Scenario	Visits	Started	Solved	Came back	Installs	What it would take
Low	1,500	600	300	90	45	Few posts gain traction; Reddit and Product Hunt bring a few hundred visits each.
Expected	4,000	1,600	800	240	120	One or two posts do well (for example r/WebGames or Product Hunt) and Pinterest starts to build.
High	12,000	4,800	2,400	720	360	A front-page day on Hacker News or a popular Reddit post, plus steady Pinterest and YouTube search.

Expected funnel

Middle scenario. The admin Marketing section draws the real version of this from day one.

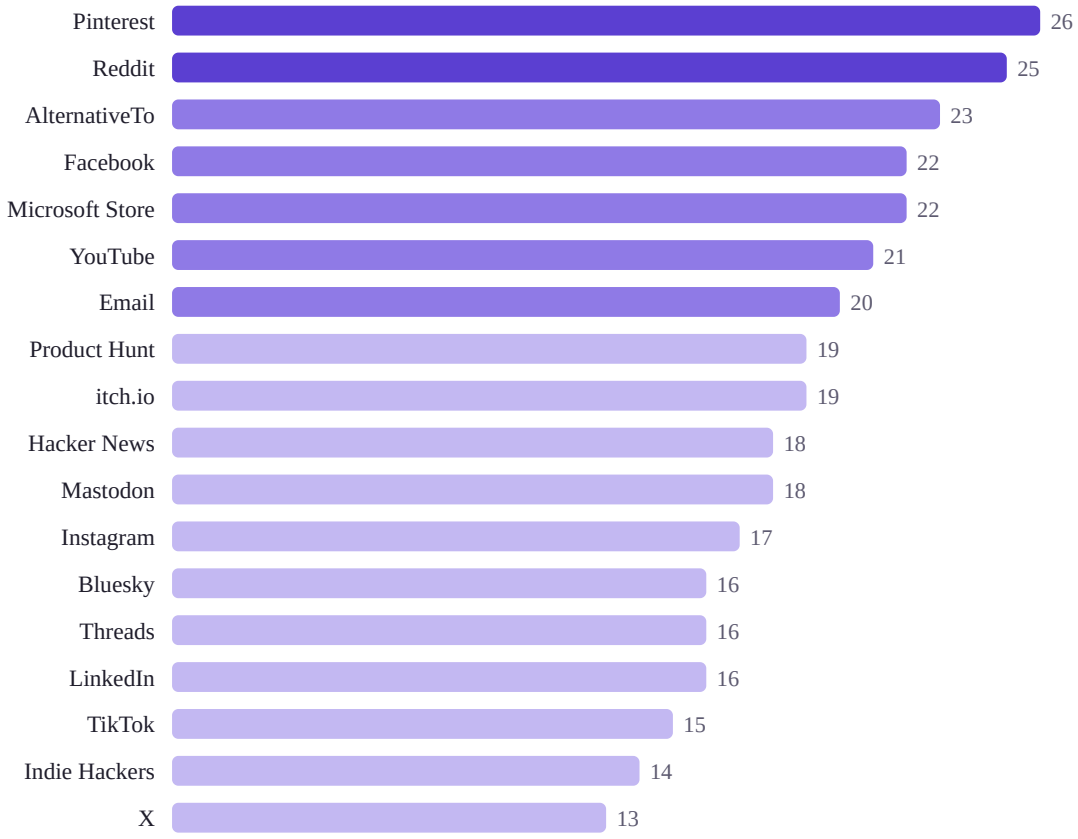

Rules for acting on the numbers

- Double down on a channel when its visitors solve puzzles at or above the 50% pass mark and it brought at least 50 visits: post there again with fresh words.
- Fix the game, not the ads, if visits are fine but fewer than 40% start a puzzle (first screen) or fewer than 50% solve (difficulty, hints).

- Stop a channel after two posts with fewer than 20 visits in total, and move that time to the best two channels.
- Watch free limits on big launch days. The free-limit alerts in admin warn before anything runs out.

5. Channel analysis

Each channel is scored on reach (how many people one good post can reach), audience fit, ease (time and rules) and how long a post keeps bringing visits. The scores are judgements to set the order; after week 2 the real numbers in the dashboard replace them.

Priority score = 2 x reach + 2 x audience fit + ease + how long it keeps working (max 30)

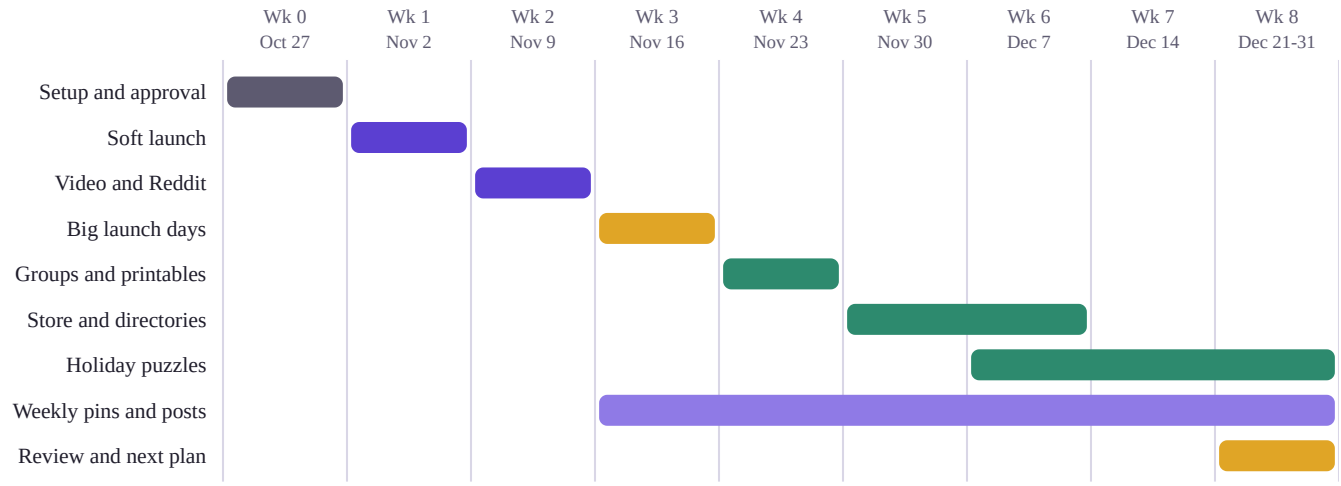

Channel	Audience	Reach	Fit	Ease	Lasts	Ads	Main risk
Pinterest	Teachers, parents, printable seekers	4	5	3	5	1	Slow to start; pins keep bringing visits for months.
Reddit	Puzzle fans, web gamers, makers	5	4	3	4	4	Self-promotion rules; posts removed if the account is new or only posts links.
AlternativeTo	People searching for Puzzle Baron alternatives	2	5	4	5	1	Takes weeks to be approved and ranked.
Facebook	Casual puzzlers 35+, homeschool groups	4	4	3	3	2	Group rules; organic Page reach is low without paid boosts (not planned).
Microsoft Store	Windows users browsing the Store	3	4	3	5	1	Certification can take a few days; identity check.
YouTube	Searchers for puzzle games; Shorts viewers	3	4	2	5	2	Needs steady uploads to grow; the promo is evergreen.
Email	Friends and family	2	5	5	1	1	Small numbers, but the best early feedback.

Product Hunt	Early adopters, tech-curious	4	3	3	2	1	One-day spike; ranking depends on launch-day support.
itch.io	Indie game players	3	3	3	4	1	Crowded; good tags and screenshots matter.
Hacker News	Developers; like the generator story	4	3	2	2	1	Unpredictable: most Show HN posts get little attention; a front-page day can bring thousands.
Mastodon	Accessibility-minded, open-web users	2	4	4	2	1
Instagram	Casual and lifestyle puzzlers	3	3	3	2	2	No clickable links in captions.
Bluesky	Early adopters, creators	2	3	4	2	1
Threads	Instagram users	2	3	4	2	1
LinkedIn	Bobby's network; teachers	2	3	5	1	1
TikTok	Younger casual players	3	2	3	2	1	Link in bio limits; needs repeated short videos.
Indie Hackers	Makers	1	3	4	2	1	Brings makers more than players.
X	General	2	2	4	1	1	Low organic reach for new accounts.

What this means

- Reddit, Pinterest and Facebook groups fit our players best. Reddit needs a week of genuine commenting first, so the account should be made this week.
- Product Hunt and Hacker News are one-day bets with a big upside. They go on back-to-back days in week 3, after the quiet launch has caught any problems.
- Pinterest, YouTube, AlternativeTo, itch.io and the Microsoft Store keep bringing visits for months from search, so they are worth setting up well even if week one is slow.
- X, Threads, Bluesky and Mastodon are cheap to post to but reach few people from new accounts. They are kept for completeness and for sharing daily puzzles later.

6. Schedule

Week 0 (October 27 to November 1): get ready

- You approve the ads and create the free accounts (Appendix C, also emailed to fantasticallogicgrid@gmail.com).
- Start commenting on Reddit (r/WebGames, r/logicpuzzles, r/puzzles) so the account is not brand-new on posting day.
- Apply for the free Microsoft Store developer account (identity check takes a few days).
- Sign up on Product Hunt now; new accounts may wait about a week before they can launch.

Ongoing, every week from week 3

- One new Pinterest pin with a different theme (holiday themes in late November and December).
- Two or three short posts a week on the social accounts that are working, built around the daily puzzle and Challenge a friend links. New words each time, never copies.
- Reply to every comment within a day; replies count as much as posts on Reddit, Product Hunt and Hacker News.
- Monday: read the weekly summary email and the Marketing section, then pick the next week's posts by the rules in section 4.

7. Tracking and reports

How tracking works

- Every ad has a tracked link: `thelogicgrid.com/?play=now&utm_source=…&utm_medium=…&utm_campaign=launch-2026&utm_content=…`. The admin link builder makes new ones.
- When a visitor arrives, the game remembers the campaign in their own browser for 30 days and removes the tags from the address bar, so links people copy and share stay clean.
- The game counts five events: visit (once per tab), play, solve, install (home screen) and download (Windows app). Each is a number added to a daily total for that campaign, channel and ad.
- Nothing personal is stored: no names, no IP addresses, no cookies, no third-party trackers. Unknown codes are grouped as "other". This keeps us within the privacy page and free of cookie banners.
- Visits from sites without tags (for example a shared link on Reddit) are still credited to the right source from the referring site.

Where to see the numbers

Report	What it shows	When
Admin, Marketing section	Totals, a visits and solves trend, tables by channel, campaign and ad, the media library, and every ad with copy and Mark as posted buttons	Any time
Marketing CSV export	Daily rows by campaign, channel, ad, event and platform for your own spreadsheet	Any time
Weekly summary email	Funnel and pass marks for the last 28 days	Monday
Free-limit alerts	Warning before any free service limit is reached	When needed
Ratings and insights	Star ratings after solving, trends and findings	Any time

Reporting rhythm

- Launch days (Nov 2, 17, 18): check the Marketing section at the end of the day.
- Weekly: best and worst channel by solves, not just visits.
- December 7: one-month review, shared publicly in the Indie Hackers post (numbers only).
- January 4, 2027: final campaign report and next plan.

8. Costs, revenue and profit

Campaign spending

> Total planned campaign spend: $0. Every channel, account and tool in this plan is free. Nothing that costs money is used without your OK.

Item	Cost	Notes
Social accounts (Facebook, Instagram, Threads, TikTok, YouTube, X, Bluesky, Mastodon, Pinterest, LinkedIn)	$0	Free accounts and free business/creator modes
Reddit, Hacker News, Product Hunt, Indie Hackers, AlternativeTo, itch.io	$0	Free to post or list
Microsoft Store	$0	Individual developer accounts are free; PWABuilder packaging is free
Videos, pictures and ad words	$0	Made from the game itself; music synthesized; no licences needed
Tracking and reports	$0	Our own server on the Cloudflare free plan
Hosting during launch spikes	$0	Within free limits at these sizes; alerts warn first

Not in this plan (would cost money, needs your OK)

Item	Cost	Why it is left out
Paid or boosted posts (Facebook, Instagram, Reddit, TikTok, X)	from about $5 a day	Free-only rule. Worth testing only after the free posts show which message works.
Google Play developer account	$25 once	Mobile apps are paused
Apple developer program	$99 a year	Mobile apps are paused
X Premium, LinkedIn Premium, scheduling tools	varies	Not needed: posts are copied from the admin dashboard by hand

Your time

The real cost is time. About 3 to 4 hours in week 0 for accounts, about 30 minutes on each posting day, about 2 hours on each big launch day (replying to comments), and 30 minutes on Mondays for the review. Roughly 15 to 20 hours over the eight weeks.

8. Costs, revenue and profit (continued)

These figures cover the game as a whole, not just the ads, for November 2026 to October 2027. Running costs use the same model as the pricing report of October 26, so the two reports agree. Revenue assumes the Support options you are choosing between (pull requests 88 to 90) are switched on. Nothing is charged today.

Assumptions

Item	Assumption	Source
Monthly players	Low 500 in December, rising to 1,500. Expected 1,600 rising to 5,500. High 5,000 rising to 15,500.	Campaign scenarios (section 4), then steady growth from search, Pinterest and the daily email
Support link (tip jar)	Live from December. 0.2% / 0.3% / 0.4% of players tip about $3 a month. GitHub Sponsors takes no fee. Once the Supporter tier starts, tippers are counted among the supporters.	Pricing report: tip jars alone get under 0.5%
Supporter tier and Founder unlock	Switched on from the first month with 2,000 players. 1% / 1.5% / 2% of players pay. A mix of $2.99 a month, $19.99 a year and the $4.99 Founder unlock comes to about $2.60 gross a month per supporter. That leaves $2.10 after Lemon Squeezy's 5% + 50c.	Pricing report: 1 to 3% of players pay for an optional tier
Running costs	Domain $1.25 a month. Build tools $100 a month. Hosting, database, sign-ins, email and voices are $0 on free plans below about 10,000 players. Past those limits: Cloudflare Workers Paid at $5 a month, and $100 a month for art and music help.	Pricing report cost model
Not counted	Your own time, income tax, and paid advertising (none planned)

Campaign period: November and December 2026

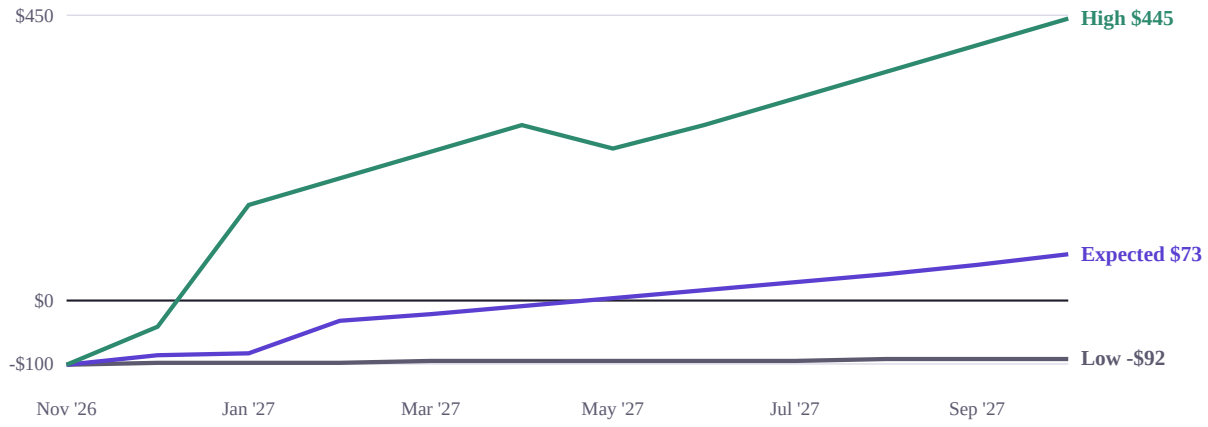

Line	Low	Expected	High
Tips (Support link)	$3.00	$15.00	$60.00
Supporter tier and Founder unlock	$0.00	$0.00	$0.00
Revenue	$3.00	$15.00	$60.00

Profit (loss)	-$199.50	-$187.50	-$142.50

The launch months run at a loss in every case. This is expected: the money options only pay once there are enough regular players.

Twelve months: November 2026 to October 2027

Line	Low	Expected	High
Tips (Support link)	$66	$33	$60
Supporter tier and Founder unlock (gross)	$0	$1,323	$5,616

8. Costs, revenue and profit (continued)

Expected scenario, month by month

Month	Players	Tippers	Supporters	Revenue	Fees	Running costs	Profit
Nov 2026	1,000	0	0	$0.00	$0.00	$101.25	-$101.25

Feb 2027	2,200	0	33	$85.80	$16.50	$101.25	-$31.95
Mar 2027	2,500	0	38	$98.80	$19.00	$101.25	-$21.45
Apr 2027	2,900	0	44	$114.40	$22.00	$101.25	-$8.85
May 2027	3,300	0	50	$130.00	$25.00	$101.25	$3.75
Jun 2027	3,700	0	56	$145.60	$28.00	$101.25	$16.35
Jul 2027	4,100	0	62	$161.20	$31.00	$101.25	$28.95
Aug 2027	4,500	0	68	$176.80	$34.00	$101.25	$41.55
Sep 2027	5,000	0	75	$195.00	$37.50	$101.25	$56.25
Oct 2027	5,500	0	83	$215.80	$41.50	$101.25	$73.05

What it takes to break even

Monthly costs are about $101.25 until the free limits are passed at around 10,000 players. Each paying supporter leaves $2.10 a month, so about 49 supporters cover the costs. That is reached at these player numbers:

Share of players who pay	1%	1.5%	2%	3%
Monthly players needed to break even	4,900	3,300	2,500	1,700

What this means

- The campaign costs nothing. The only running costs are the domain and your build tools, about $1,215 a year, and they are paid whether or not the campaign runs.
- No revenue until you switch on a Support option. The money-option pull requests (88 to 90) are waiting for your pick. A tip jar alone will not cover costs at these sizes.
- Profit depends on regular players, not visits. The 7-day return pass mark (15%) matters more for money than any single launch day. The Supporter tier pays its way from about 3,300 monthly players at 1.5% paying.
- No paid advertising yet. At $2.10 a month per supporter, a paid player only pays back if the ad costs less than about $0.03 per visit (1.5% paying, 12 months). Free channels first, then test small boosts only where the numbers prove it.
- These are planning figures, not a forecast. From week 2 the dashboard has real player numbers. This table will be rebuilt from them at the one-month review on December 7.

Not tax or accounting advice. Revenue from sales is taxable income; Lemon Squeezy acts as the seller and handles sales tax.

9. Risks and how we handle them

Risk	Likelihood	What we do
A Reddit post is removed for self-promotion	Medium	Comment for a week first, read each subreddit's rules on the day, post one subreddit at a time, reply to comments. Never repost a removed post.
A launch day brings more traffic than the free limits	Low	The site is static and cached; free-limit alerts warn first; races and voices have caps.
A bug shows up with many new players	Medium	Soft launch first; error reports and nightly checks catch problems; Product Hunt and Hacker News only after week 1 is clean.
Low reach on new social accounts	High	Expected. These accounts are low effort; time moves to channels that work by the rules in section 4.
Negative comments about the game	Medium	Thank people, log the idea or problem in admin feedback, fix it and say so. Fixed items are marked Addressed and players are told.
Accounts blocked for looking like spam	Low	Different words for every channel, no mass posting, one Facebook group a day.
Privacy complaints about tracking	Low	Tracking is anonymous daily counts only, described on the privacy page.

10. Decisions needed from you

1. Approve the ads. In admin, Marketing, open each ad and set it to Approved to post, or reply in the project with the numbers from Appendix A you approve. Edit anything you like first.
2. Create the free accounts in Appendix C. The same steps were emailed to fantasticallogicgrid@gmail.com.
3. Confirm the start date of Monday, November 2, or pick another; the calendar moves with it.
4. Who posts. The ads post from your accounts, so you post them by copying the words and link from the dashboard (one click each), then press Mark as posted and paste the post's link.
5. Optional later: if the free posts work, whether to test a small paid boost on the best channel. Not planned and not used without your OK.

> Nothing in this plan is posted publicly until you approve it.

Appendix A: all 24 ads, word for word

These match the drafts in the admin Marketing section, in posting order. Each has its own tracked link; the dashboard copies the words with the link filled in.

Subject: I made a puzzle game, would you try it?

Hi,

I have been building a free puzzle game called The Fantastical Logic Grid. Every logic puzzle comes with its own little story, and there is a new daily puzzle each day.

It plays in your web browser, no sign-up needed: https://thelogicgrid.com/?play=now&utm_source=email&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=launch-2026&utm_content=friends-family

If you try it, I would love to know what you think (there is an Ideas box in the menu). And if you know someone who loves puzzles, please pass it on.

Thanks!
Bobby

I made a free logic grid puzzle game where every puzzle gets its own little story, from a castle mystery to a bake-sale mix-up. Six levels, a daily puzzle, and hints that explain the reasoning. 🧩

3 LinkedIn: the maker post

Tue, Nov 3 · Week 1 · LinkedIn (social) · code `maker-post`

I just launched The Fantastical Logic Grid, a free logic puzzle game where every puzzle is generated with its own story.

A few things I cared about while building it:
• Every puzzle has exactly one solution, checked by a solver before you see it
• Hints explain the reasoning instead of handing over the answer
• Accessible from the start: keyboard and screen-reader play, high contrast, read-aloud, 100 languages
• Runs entirely on free tiers

If you like puzzles, or know a teacher who does, I would love your feedback: https://thelogicgrid.com/?play=now&utm_source=linkedin&utm_medium=social&utm_campaign=launch-2026&utm_content=maker-post

I built a logic grid puzzle game that writes a fresh story for every puzzle

https://thelogicgrid.com/?play=now&utm_source=reddit&utm_medium=forum&utm_campaign=launch-2026&utm_content=sideproject-story

What it does: you choose a theme, difficulty and size; it builds a puzzle with exactly one solution, writes a short story and cast around it, and gives step-by-step hints. There is a daily puzzle, races against other players, a scoreboard and printing with answer keys.

It runs entirely on free tiers: a static site, one small server for accounts and races, and free on-device voices for read-aloud. Happy to answer questions about how the puzzles are generated.

URL: https://thelogicgrid.com/?play=now&utm_source=hackernews&utm_medium=community&utm_campaign=launch-2026&utm_content=show-hn

First comment: Hi HN. This builds classic logic grid ("Einstein") puzzles from a theme, a size and a difficulty. A solver checks each one has a single solution and grades it by the techniques needed, from simple elimination up to what-if reasoning for the MENSA level. A story engine then writes the setting, cast and clue wording around the answer, and never reuses a story. It is a static PWA plus one Cloudflare Worker for accounts and races, all on free tiers. Happy to talk about the generator.
